

What to pay attention to pre-protection

calculus homework

In any work there are those moments for which it is necessary to pay attention to. It was not an exception and pre-diploma work, and teachers, listening to about the same thing from year to year, already know exactly what they will ask at the end of the persistent and often the same type of report.

Preservation-diploma is a demonstrative-performance

If you are interested to learn how to lean the commission of strict teachers, I can share personal observations and experience that I happened once to get during my pre-trial.

1. Talking the essence of his work, it is necessary to rely on specific excerpts from the explanatory note, and they are not casual about them, but to report the page number where confirmation of the voiced information is.
2. Do not speak with general words, and any proposal to confirm the numbers that were obtained in the experimental part of the work.
3. In the content of the explanatory note, it is desirable and urged the presence of charts, graphs, tables and patterns, which noticeably dilutes the dull text and makes it more susceptible to understanding.
4. Teachers love visual benefits, so the ideal version is a slide show, and in the absence of technical capabilities, the presence of bulk drawings or other didactic material.
5. It is important that the presence of references and a list of reference literature is important, but they only need to rely on them, and not to speak in other people's phrases. The teachers know the saying of smart people in their field, so plagiarism will be exposed very quickly, and it will already be estimated to be reduced at least two bala. So the uniqueness of the content is welcome.
6. Pedagogues love the accuracy and correctness of the design of the explanatory note, otherwise each page will begin to choose to blots and the absence of commas and points where their finding is simply necessary.
7. Appearance is also a reason for eternal pick-up and visual irritation. Therefore, that the teacher does not turn into a bull that reacts to a red cloth is best to choose classic black and white tones in the clothes.

If you adhere to all these rules, it is possible that the defense will pass simply with a bang; And the real defense will be just a matter of time and the moment of triumph.

Reason for further anxiety

If teachers are prefeeding the student's attention to individual errors, then they are important to correct as soon as possible. If you hope for "maybe", such a protection error can become fatal, and spoil not only the assessment, but also the once impeccable reputation of the graduate.

Very frequently corrected on pre-trial errors become a saving circle for a student, as a teacher in old memory begins to ask the questions that have already been decomposed on the shelves much earlier.

Thereby pulls the student to a good assessment. So all the comments voiced to prevent the graduation work should be studied in detail.
